DETAILED ACTION

Note: This is in response the amendment filed 05/17/2010.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –
(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 1-30 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Brennenman (US 6406487).

Note in figures 1-5 of Brennenman, a expandable surgical cannula (1) is interpreted as a floating surgical cannula and is made of nitinol alloy and a surgical tool is used for inserting the cannula (1) into human's brain (3); and wherein the exterior and interior of the cannula can be coated with materials as recited in the claims. With respect to the method claims 15-17, it is note that the device of Brennenman clearly capable of performing the method as claimed includes forming a small opening at the location in need of surgery, inserting a contracted floating surgical cannula at the location, and expanding the surgical cannula to a size sufficient for surgery.

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1 and 15 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection. In response to applicant's argument that the stent (hollow tube) of Brenneman is used for inserted into the lumen of an artery or vein, rather inserted into a body cavity, duct, or tissue to drain fluid. In addition, applicant argues that the stent of Brenneman is incapable of performing the jobs that claimed invention can perform, a recitation of the intended use of the claimed invention must result in a structural difference between the claimed invention and the prior art in order to patentably distinguish the claimed invention from the prior art. If the prior art structure is capable of performing the intended use, then it meets the claim.

Conclusion

4. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
